

Interns for GXN - Copenhagen

We are GXN

GXN is an independent design-driven research studio that pioneers strategic sustainability within the construction industry. Founded by 3XN, we believe in a sustainable future that integrates circular and behavioural design. Through our projects, we bridge research and practice, exploring architecture's unique potential for effecting positive change.

We are considered as one of the leading built environment organisations with sustainable agendas. We work across a rich range of scales, typologies, formats and locations – it is our approach that unites our work. Our vision is to positively affect the world we live in — architecturally and environmentally.

The Internship

Experience working in our core team and contributing directly to the development of our projects, in a rich range in scales, typologies, formats and locations. The duration of the internship is generally 6 months between August/ September and January/February, in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Your Qualifications

At least 2,5 years of relevant studies completed and still enrolled in university is a necessity.

Advanced knowledge of Rhino and Adobe is required. You must be a team player, fluent in English (Scandinavian languages are an advantage) and motivated to improve the relationship between buildings, humans and our environment.
